As a vehicle commander in the notorious Band of Five, he continues this eerie practice whenever possible, often sifting through the hulks of fallen or crippled foes, "clearing" any survivors, and slicing off fingers—one for each victim. At last count, Ritter had over 70 fingers in his collection, each lovingly preserved in a special case that he always carries with him.

Commentary

Clan Nova Cat's Shoden assault vehicle appeared quite unexpectedly after the first Dominion-Combine War of 3062-3063, when the wheeled missile transport first rolled off the assembly lines at the newly completed Barcella Beta factory on Irece. With a triple-rack of advanced tactical missiles and a quartet of machine guns, plus the armor to withstand serious punishment, the Shoden excelled in both defensive and assault operations.

During the Jihad, Clan Nova Cat became the first of Kerensky's descendants to actively assist the Inner Sphere and Devlin Stone's coalition against the Word of Blake zealots, and NC200-011A ("Claws") was among the armor support units the Nova Cats sent in alongside their Delta Galaxy to that end. Both vehicle and crew followed Stone and joined his nascent Republic after the fighting, and the vehicle was commandeered by the Spirit Cats after the HPG grid collapsed, only to be captured by Bannon's Raiders soon afterward.

Though his battlefield moniker suggests a past life as a cat burglar, Anibal Ritter is actually one of Bannon's Raider's many accomplished hitmen. It's a talent he comes by quite honestly, having been linked to the Tybalt Mafia even before he became part of Bannon Universal, Unlimited's "security force." Indeed, his very employment underscores a possible link between the Republic megabillionaire and organized crime. Ritter himself was one of the worst of his particular lot, earning his nickname for his habit of collecting index fingers from his victims.
