

BATTLETECHNOLOGY

The Magazine of Combat in the 31st Century

BattleTechnology was published between 1987 and 1995. Its contents were approved by FASA Corporation and are considered to be Official optional materials for the FASA BattleTech Armored Combat Game System. All FASA product names were used with FASA's permission. And, of course, all FASA trademarks belong to FASA corporation.

A note on numbering and dating. The first creative team numbered its issues 0101 through 0204. This stood for Year 1, Issue 1 to Year 2, Issue 4. 0204 was also Issue 6. The fourth creative team began to change the dating of the issues in order to try to make up for irregularities in the publication schedule and to try to keep the magazine in something like the same time frame as the story line of FASA's BattleTech game system that had begun to jump decades into the 'future'. The premise was that each issue being put out was an example selected somewhat randomly, from the actual 31st Century sequence. This line of thought led to both The Lost Issues and The Early Years Special Issues.

- Repair Bay: Engine Swaps
- Mech Warrior: Training and Experience
- The Battle of Kilgore: BattleForce Campaign
- Deep Trouble: Encounter of Scheat V
- More than Warriors: The Apprentice's Lament

Cover:

A lightning strike by the 2nd Kearny Highlanders spearheaded a snap raid by Liao forces onto the Davion world of Corella early in July 3027, culminating in the Battle of Kilgore. Critics of Prince Hanse Davion's policies contend that the war games and maneuvers recently launched are wasteful of precious war materials and risk triggering confrontations such as Kilgore.

BattleTechnology Issue 0102 (#2), October 3027

Contents:

- Black Luthien
- The Nekekami - Spirit Cats of the Draconis Combine
- A Dagger's Death
- Hiring Hall: The Red Duke

Cover:

BattleTechnology takes this opportunity to thank Sgt Laura Martinez, formerly of Scout Lance, 3rd Co, Mirsham's Battalion for the information and personal mementos that gave us our inside coverage of Galtor's own 3039 War. Although Galtor III saw her unit destroyed, Sgt. Martinez has made a new career for herself in the Magistracy of Canopus, where she is a member of the Magistrix's personal defense force. Her husband, former Mirsham's pilot Julian Warlock, is head trainer-in-residence for the Magistrix's Aerospace Forces. This picture of Sgt. Martinez was taken just before Mirsham's Battalion left for Galtor III.
